U. S. ENGINEERS HELPED BREAK HINDENBURG LINE

First News of the American Forces Taking Part With the British in Their Recent Drive Made Public Today--
Worked As Shells Exploded Within One Hundred Yards

U. S. PATROL IS FLOATED

(By Associated Press)
An Atlantic Port, Nov. 30.—The American patrol boat that ran ashore on a ledge in the North Atlantic (two weeks ago), was floated today and was taken in tow and brought to a ship yard for repairs.

DATE SET FOR R. R. HEARING

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Nov. 30.—The hearing on the proposed increase in passenger fares on the New England railroads will take place in Boston, Dec. 5, before Interstate Commerce Commissioner Anderson.

(By Associated Press)
British Army Headquarters in France, Nov. 30.—The American engineers were the first American troops to engage in military operations on the British front. They took part in breaking the Hindenburg line by Gen. Byng's forces last week.
Military regulations have made it necessary to withhold the fact that the engineers were in the action until today, when it is now possible to inform the people of the United States that the engineers of the American army did a large part in pushing up the railroads behind the British troops during the breaking of the Hindenburg line.
As a matter of fact, the American engineers have been laboring on the railroads on the devastated battlefields of the Somme district for the last four months.

Two of the men that were announced wounded in the Washington dispatches were men from the American engineers corps. No casualties were reported from this section of the American expeditionary forces.

The speed with which the American engineers laid the railroads as the British forced through the Hindenburg line has called forth the highest praise from the British officers. One of the most interesting facts is that the engineers labored coolly at track laying while the white shells burst within 100 yards of where they were at work.

RUSSIAN PEACE MAY BE RESULT

Austro-Hungarian Government Sends Official Message That They Are Ready to Negotiate for Armistice and Peace.

(By Associated Press)
Amsterdam, Nov. 30.—According to Vienna dispatches the Austro-Hungarian government has sent an official reply to the Russian government as a result of the latter's wireless messages and have offered to enter into negotiations for an armistice and peace as soon as Russia is ready to take the action.

Berlin, via London, Nov. 30.—The war situation was discussed in the Reichstag today by Count George von Hertling, the new Imperial German Chancellor.

Von Hertling declared that Germany is ready to enter into peace negotiations as soon as Russia is ready to send representatives with full power to act in the matter.

He stated that he was sincerely in hopes that the present efforts would result in peace.

It was stated that the German army has been informed of the success. The highest praise was also given to the grand army and navy.

In conclusion, the new chancellor eulogized the home population and stated that while the political reform would not be carried out as the fundamental principles of the Imperial constitution cannot be changed.

FOUR KILLED IN EXPLOSION

(By Associated Press)
Trenton, Ont., Nov. 30.—Four workmen were killed and two injured when an explosion wrecked one building of the British Chemical Company this morning. The building was destroyed by fire that started immediately after the explosion.

EIGHTEEN MINERS ARE IMPRISONED

(By Associated Press)
Christopher, Ill., Nov. 30.—Rescue parties worked all last night in an effort to free the 18 miners that are imprisoned on the 600-foot level of the Old Ben Coal Corporation mines, located here. The men were caught in the mine as the result of an explosion last night.

The fact that there were not more than 18 miners caught in the mine at the time of the explosion is due to the fact that yesterday was a holiday and many of the men were not at their work.

UNITS FROM EACH STATE IN FRANCE

Announcement Was Made Today That National Guardsmen From Each State in the Union Are Now in Training in France--All Arrived Safely--Battle But a Short Distance Away

(By Associated Press)
With the American Army in France, Nov. 30.—The National Guard from every state in the Union has arrived at the American training quarters on the French battlefield. Newspapers were permitted to make this announcement today for the first time.
The late arrivals are now with the troops that are in training and are being prepared for the real warfare by competent officers, well used to modern warfare.
An attempt has been made to keep the boys from each state together as much as possible. This has been done with one exception.

The dispatches state that while it is impossible to designate what detachments have arrived it does say, however, that all who sailed from the United States have arrived safely.
Some of the recent arrivals from the United States are in training within a short distance from heavy firing and within easy sound of the battle.
Whether regulars, national guard or national army, each and every man is

SEC. DANIELS PRAISES TWO NAVAL MEN

Washington, Nov. 30.—Another striking act of duty and heroism has been reported by Vice Admiral Sims to the navy department in connection with the torpedoing of the American torpedo boat destroyer Cassin in British waters on October 15.

Only three days ago Secretary Daniels was informed of the bravery of Osmond K. Ingraham, gunner's mate, who lost his life by rushing to the stern of the Cassin and throwing overboard powerful explosives to save the destroyer when he saw the torpedo approaching that end of the vessel.

Yesterday Mr. Daniels was informed of the bravery of Wm. Joseph Murphy, chief electrician on the Cassin, who stood by his post when the force of the explosion put the Cassin's radio apparatus out of commission, and succeeded in repairing and adjusting it. Murphy, a New York youth, enlisted at Boston on November 6, 1911.

Besides commending Murphy, Mr. Daniels also announced yesterday that he had sent a message praising Seaman John J. Swigart for jumping overboard from an army transport in an unsuccessful attempt to save a shipmate. Swigart jumped from the vessel which was going at full speed, into its wake, and swam to a point where the men were last seen. He suffered for the body until completely exhausted.

Swigart, enlisted in Cincinnati, March 15, 1917, has given as his next of kin, William Swigart, a brother of 31 East Seventh street, Newport, Ky.

O'BRIEN BEARS CHARMED LIFE

Seventy-two Days of Perilous Adventures in Escape From Germany.

London, Nov. 30.—Lieut. Patrick O'Brien of Monmouth, Ill., the first American member of the British flying corps to escape from Germany has arrived in London. O'Brien eluded his captors by jumping from the window of a speeding train. He then became a fugitive for 72 days and as his goal was within sight, narrowly escaped recapture from the charged wire along the Holland frontier.

After eluding his aged mother, Mrs. Margaret O'Brien at Monmouth, to expect him soon, Lieut. O'Brien, called upon American Ambassador Page to seek advice regarding his desire to be transferred to the American flying corps. Last night O'Brien was dined by a group of admiring fliers, who like scores of friends along the front, had believed he had been killed when he was reported missing on Aug. 17 last.

O'Brien, who is a sturdy young man of 27 was flying in the American aviation squadron at San Diego, California in the Canadian army. Going to France the next year he distinguished himself by his great daring over the German lines. On the morning of August 17 enemy gunners forced him to descend, but fortunately he landed behind his own lines.

Later afternoon of the same day saw him again over the German lines, fighting the enemy. There were 20 German machines to six British in the encounter. O'Brien's machine alone engaging four enemy craft and accounting for one before O'Brien was shot through the upper lip. He fell with his damaged airplane from a height of eight thousand feet. O'Brien says he cannot explain why he was not killed. When he gained consciousness he was in a German hospital.

Later the lieutenant spent three weeks at a prison camp at Courcelles before he was started on the interior of Germany. There were three other prisoners under a strong guard in his compartment when O'Brien, as a ruse, hid the window opened, by complaining of the smoke.

The train was now sixty miles inside Germany and traveling at thirty miles an hour, but O'Brien decided to take a desperate chance. He jumped from the train, skimming the whole side of the face, reopening his wound in his lip and losing consciousness. It was about four o'clock in the morning and the darkness chilled him. When he recovered he was lying in a field.

Then for 72 days he was a fugitive, traveling only at night. He trudged through fields and swam rivers and canals in Germany, Luxemburg and Belgium before he reached the Dutch frontier. At the time of his flight he had a piece of sausage on which he subsisted for several days, after which his sole sustenance consisted of turnips and other vegetables found in fields.

O'Brien did not know the German language but he used a little French on a kindly Belgian who was happy to meet an American in British uniform that he sheltered him for several days. The Belgian then gave him old clothes to cover his uniform and directed him to the nearest route to the frontier. O'Brien swam the river Meuse near Namur and the next day was challenged by German sentries who decided he was a peasant.

But his narrowest escape was reserved for his last day as a fugitive when he could see Dutch territory. To circumvent the charged wires, O'Brien built a bridge in a nearby wood and threw it across the wires, but it broke down under his weight and O'Brien received a shock which he says he can still feel. When he recovered he dug with his bare hands a tunnel under the wire, and although it was slow progress, after several hours he had a hole big enough to crawl through, which he did unobserved.

Even then O'Brien was not sure he was on Dutch territory, so he concealed himself in a hay barn until the next morning. When daylight came the first thing he saw was people making wooden shoes. He then walked out into the open and hurried to the nearest British consular office arranged for his transportation to London.

"De Luxe Annie" begins a three-weeks engagement at Ye Wilbur Theatre on Monday evening, next, Dec. 3, after a successful engagement in New York, where it is now playing at the Cort Theatre.

Arthur Hammerstein, whose many successes have been brought to Boston in the past, will again visit Boston next week. This time, the well-known producer will present for the first time in many seasons a drama, it is entitled "De Luxe Annie," dramatized by Edward Clark, from a short story of the same name by Seawood Lockwood, published in the Saturday Evening Post. "De Luxe Annie" is a psychological play of mystery and surprise, in three acts and six scenes. It opens with a prologue which takes place in the smoking compartment of a Pullman car, and then like "On Trial," the story reverts back to the scene of its happening.

The producer has spared no pains in the casting of the piece. In fact, he has exercised even greater care than heretofore, and Jane Grey, as the "badger queen," who is a sufferer of amnesia, causing her to turn to crime, does some very emotional and splendid acting. The balance of the cast is just as wisely chosen, and includes George Anderson, who as her accomplice, plays the part of a "gentleman crook." Walter Wilson as the detective also deserves special mention. Among the other players in the cast are Max Hail, Albert Gruning, Thurlow Bergen, Minnie Milne, Percy Pollock, Jack McBride, Robert W. Sully and several others.

For the first time in many years, Baker and vicinity experienced a genuine old fashioned Thanksgiving day, with the ground whitened by a three inch fall of snow and the temperature registered above zero. It was also the coldest Thanksgiving for some fifteen years and despite the snowfall there were a few who enjoyed the Thanksgiving day, shivering for the cold weather had frozen the streams.

The day's program consisted of the union Thanksgiving services at the Phillips church, the sermon being preached by the pastor, Rev. Dr. S. H. Dana. Services were also held at the "Christ" church conducted by the Rev. Victor M. Haughton.

Among the Thanksgiving dinners was the special one served at Alumni hall to the students of the academy who did not go to their homes. An interesting after dinner program was carried out.

BREAKS UP DANCE IN STATE ARMORY

New York, Nov. 30.—An order issued by Brigadier General Dyer of the state militia, interdicting dancing at the 12th Regiment armory, broke up last night what otherwise had been a very successful entertainment for soldiers and sailors under the direction of the national service commission. Nearly 1200 men who are serving the nation attended the Thanksgiving dinner which had been served by society girls and matrons.

Many of the men in uniform had just gone out on the floor to dance with their hostesses when a bugle blast brought them to attention. An officer on the staff of General Dyer announced that dancing was not permitted in state armories. Scores of soldiers and sailors promptly said good night and marched out, some in squad formation others in groups and phir.

"They are going just where the government does not want them, go and where we are trying to prevent them from going," said J. Baranum Nott, an officer of the service commission, in a statement issued in explanation of the incident. "But we are going to provide dances for those boys even if the state will not allow us to use their armories for that purpose. They want to dance and should be allowed to dance."

MATTRESS FACTORY IS DESTROYED AT DOVER

The Dover Mattress and Carpet Cleaning Factory of Joseph P. Ball at the rear of 239 Washington street, Dover, together with its contents was completely destroyed by fire about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, causing quite a heavy loss to Mr. Ball who owned the contents and Herbert G. SINN FEINERS' AGITATION CONTINUES TO STEAM

(By Associated Press)
Dublin, Nov. 27.—The Sinn Féin agitation continues to steam without holding over into actual rebellion. The purpose of the Sinn Féin is alleged to be to keep the news of the government on edge, to produce the impression that they mediate very much deeds, and at suitable moments to provoke the government's action as an evidence that England is holding down Ireland by force. Their notion is said to be that the military measures taken against them produce England in neutral countries and in Russia.

The attitude of the military commanders is, that it is their business to check anything that could lead into another armed revolt. The last time they were caught napping and besides incurred a formidable list of casualties in killed and wounded. The government had to pay three million pounds because it was obliged to admit responsibility for the failure to protect the lives and property of peaceful citizens. They are resolved that that shall not happen again. That is why they have forbidden drilling or uniforms or processions.

A disciplined body of men marching in military formation, and trained to the word of command, even if armed only with hurleys could outnumber any local police force and control any town. Hence such processions are prohibited. Today there were to be Sinn Féin national parades in uniform all over Ireland with a great meeting in the neighborhood of the Curah camp. That has been prevented.

The military authorities are particularly keen on preventing the acquisition of arms. The Sinn Féin men hope of getting arms not from Germany but from the British army, and there is a constant activity to steal or purchase arms from individual soldiers.

For the present the government is in the possession that through the convention it is offering the Irish people home rule. But the convention drags along without coming to a decision. It should not form a plan for government Ireland will be left where it was at the beginning, with the knowledge that there can be home rule for 25 counties, and that Belfast will not come in and cannot be forced in. The situation then would be that the government would be obliged to suppress the Sinn Féiners.

the fighting front and the men are given short furloughs from trench duty.

The hotel is reserved for four hundred enlisted men. American ambulance men, soldiers, sailors and marines stationed in Paris are being housed there provisionally. They will give up their quarters when men begin coming to Paris on leave in large numbers.

A correspondent of the Associated Press recently found the large and spacious lounge room nearly filled with men in khaki, navy blue and the new pea green uniforms of the marines. A boyish looking ambulance driver at the piano accompanied a quartet of two soldiers, a sailor and a marine singing American rag-time airs. "Give us another," shouted a sailor, and the crowd approved lustily, and joined in the chorus.

"You Promised Mother a Letter. Write it now." "Why Not Send a Few Lines Home?" and other admonitions of like character on conspicuous signs were being obeyed by a number of the boys around a table in the adjoining room.

A few boys were taking a late meal in one corner of the dining room. "How do you like it here, boys?" asked a Y. M. C. A. official. "Fine, home, was never like this," replied one of the group. Meals are served at virtually cost prices. Enlisted men can get well-furnished steam-heated rooms, for 60 cents a night.

Association secretaries meet all trains from the front and ports of landing and show the men around Paris and Versailles in sight-seeing automobiles. Theatre parties are arranged nightly and church parties leave the hotel for both Catholic and Protestant services each Sunday morning.

Accommodations for one hundred army and navy officers are provided at the hotel. At this hotel meals are served by a committee of volunteer American women workers headed by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and the men liked it so much that they fell automatically into the habit of tipping the waitresses. Word was tactfully passed around that this was superfluous and the Richmond has become the only tipless hotel in Paris.

A shopping bureau established here undertakes all sorts of purchases for officers from handkerchiefs to raincoats and gifts for wives, sweethearts, relatives and friends at home.

Two handsome lounge rooms furnished with heavy club furniture on the ground floor and an interior garden where tea is served each afternoon by American women are popular.

GOVERNMENT KEEPS PRESSURE ON GERMANY

Washington, Nov. 28.—President Wilson tonight extended to imports the same control the Government has exercised over exports since early in the war by issuing a proclamation requiring the licensing of most of the chief import commodities. The licensing will be put in the hands of the War Trade Board, which issued all licenses for exports.

Control over imports gives the Government another weapon which will be used to its fullest extent in the economic war on Germany. It puts this country in a position during the war almost to direct the trade of the world, for the United States could let it serve as the heaviest kind of pressure on neutral traders suspected of using American goods to supply Germany. Controlling both exports and imports the Government is in a position, too, to demand of other nations the kind of supplies it needs in prosecution of the war.

One of the chief advantages of import control is that it gives the Government a larger measure of supervision over shipping. If tonnage need for war purposes is being used to transport to this country, commodities regarded as non-essentials, the Government can decline to issue import licenses and thus divert the tonnage to essential trades.

The so-called conservation list of export commodities, for whose shipment license is issued, was increased by President Wilson today by the addition of many kinds of ores, chemical compounds, iron and steel products, many foodstuffs, surgical instruments and lumber.

NO CHANCES TAKEN WITH SOLDIERS' HEALTH

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Nov. 29.—In the most recent report received by the Surgeon General of the Army from Gen. Pershing concerning the health conditions of the American expeditionary forces is the statement that there is not a single case of typhoid or paratyphoid among the thousands of American soldiers now in France.

Reports for a similar period from the camps and cantonments, where more than 1,000,000 men have been in training in the United States for two or more months, revealed only seven cases of typhoid and one case of paratyphoid.

Elimination of typhoid from the camps is only one of the accomplishments of the trained experts that have been entrusted with the care of the soldiers' health. Every form of communicable disease is receiving their constant attention. Vaccination, inoculation and sanitation have worked wonders, backed by scrupulous cleanliness and rigid inspection.

What Happened in 1898.
The official medical records of the Spanish-American War disclose that "every regiment in the United States services in 1898 developed typhoid fever. More than 80 per cent of the volunteer regiments developed typhoid fever within eight weeks after being gathered in the state encampments. It became epidemic, both in the small encampments and in the larger ones. More men died from disease than from bullets."

During the nineteen years that have intervened since the brush with Spain, medical science has made great progress. The medical corps of the army as now constituted under the leadership of Surgeon General Gorgas was ready to safeguard the health of the soldiers on the first day of volunteers.

Camp Regulations.
Here are some of the camp regulations which show why there need be no fear of a repetition of the "disgrace of 1898."

No water can be used for drinking purposes until it has been analyzed and pronounced fit by a medical officer. All drinking water must be covered tightly against dust and other sources of infection.

When the water supply is contaminated or doubtful, but when it must nevertheless be used, the water is sterilized in forty-gallon canvas bags. The sterilization is done with a hypochloride of calcium, which is issued in measured doses sealed in glass tubes. Even highly contaminated water is rendered safe by this process.

Kitchen and mess-halls at cantonments are screened. The killing of flies must go on as long as there are any flies left to kill. All dishes and other tableware must be protected from flies and dust. Hot water and clean towels must be used for cleaning dishes.

The responsible vendor of food is no longer permitted within an American military camp.

Bath and lavatory waste water is not allowed to collect in pools. Garbage is removed or burned on the spot as fast as it accumulates.

Every man in the army is examined every two weeks by a medical officer. There is a sick call every morning and any man who is indisposed, no matter how trivial his ailment, is sent to the doctor.

Viewed from every angle, according to one of the high officers of the medical inspection force, health conditions in all the camps are most satisfactory. That there will be some sickness, and some deaths is, of course, expected. Discipline and sanitation, together with the measures of prevention, are expected to return the men to their homes, as Secretary Baker has said, "strengthened and stimulated in body and mind."

500 Nurses Needed.
Gen. Gorgas, accompanied by a staff of high ranking medical officers, has returned from a visit to Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga., where the party made an inspection of health conditions.

Reports of an increasing rate of measles and pneumonia were responsible for the visit. Gen. Gorgas is understood to have submitted a report to Secretary of War Baker in which he frankly discusses conditions as he found them.

Any recommendations which the Surgeon General may have made remain to be disclosed. It is expected that Mr. Baker will make the report public in the immediate future.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

You must eat to live; and so long as your stomach digests and assimilates its food, sickness seldom attacks you. But hasty and careless eating frequently interferes with the digestion and starts stomach troubles. Good health depends so much on the condition of the stomach, that unusual care should be taken to keep it in good order. To maintain take Beecham's Pills at the first sign of a sick headache, indigestion, biliousness or constipation. A dose or two will usually right the trouble, tone the digestion and improve the appetite. Made entirely of medicinal herbs, these pills act naturally, without any unpleasant after-effects. For more than sixty years, the timely use of Beecham's Pills has helped men and women in all parts of the world to avoid many of life's ailments and keep a healthy stomach.

and Nairo Corps. In this connection he said:

"The work is particularly difficult and exacting and the opportunity for patriotic service correspondingly great. A 1,000-bed base hospital has been established with each National Guard and National Army cantonment. Each will require at least sixty-five graduate nurses in its personnel. Those whose services are immediately available are desired. The pay is $10 per month and maintenance."

PROVIDES FOR FIRST LADY OF THE LAND

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—Twelve thousand dollars a year "pin money" for the wife of the President of the United States is provided in a fund from the estate of Henry G. Freeman Jr., a lawyer, who died here recently. In his will, a sum sufficient to yield this amount annually is to be set aside after the death of his two children and others named as beneficiaries.

"The reason I make this fund," the will explains, "is because I feel the President of the United States receives such a miserable allowance for a man holding the greatest position on earth."

When the beneficiaries named in the will are dead, the trustees are directed as follows:

"They shall place a sufficient sum aside that will yield $12,360 per annum. The $360 shall be their commission, and only that amount for the payment of the said sum of $12,000 in monthly payments by check, to her order alone, for own and absolute use, not negotiable or attachable in any manner, payable to the lady termed the 'First Lady of the Land,' that is, the President of the United States's wife, or any one representing the President as such, should he not be married or should she die during his Administration, the person so representing her, and this shall continue in force as long as this glorious Government lasts."

The fund from which this amount is to be paid, the will directs, is to be called the "Henry G. Freeman Jr. pin money fund."

SIMPLIFY RAILROAD ORDERS

"At the request" of the Railroad War Board, France, Italy, England and Russia have centralized their requests for embargo modification permits with the traffic executive at 135 Broadway, New York City. This step has been taken to relieve the various Railroad Embargo Officers from the needless congestion resulting from thousands of requests for modification permits the majority of which are duplications. From now on when permits are desired for traffic consigned to Compeller Johannet for account of the French Government; General Tozzi for account of the Italian Government; Connop Gutherie for account of the British Government or C. G. Meilikhovsky for account of the Russian Government the application will be made

Paris, Nov. 28.—The American Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association is trying to make the American soldier and sailor feel "at home" when he comes to Paris on leave. Two hotels, one for officers and the other for enlisted men, have just been opened here and provided with all the comforts of home and of a well regulated club. Both hotels are convenient to the railroad stations at which the men will arrive for imports of landing and the front. Other hotels will be opened as may be required. Portsmouth, N. H., Friday, November 30, 1917.

Now for Enforcement.

Now that regulations have been established to protect the public against extortion in the matter of food prices it is proper that they should be enforced. Already complaints are coming from different quarters that some dealers are finding ways to evade the requirements. Such dealers must be checked at once if the public is to get the benefit of what the government has attempted for the protection of consumers. Experience has taught the people of this country that law is one thing and that the enforcement of law is quite another.

Arthur Williams, who represents the Federal Food Administration in New York city, is determined that the regulations shall be of real benefit to the people of that city if it is possible to make them so. As is known, small dealers in food stuffs do not come under the licensing provision that applies to large dealers, and it is these that Mr. Williams proposes to look after in New York city.

It is proposed to have committees to keep the public informed on the general conditions of trade so the people will be in a position to know whether they are being imposed upon or not. A committee of wholesale fish dealers has been appointed to keep the public informed of the conditions in that trade, and it is proposed to have committees to take similar action along other lines, to the end that consumers may know whether the small retailers are respecting the regulations or not. Where abuses are found those guilty of them will be reported, and under the excess profits law they will be unable to buy supplies until they are ready to conform to regulations which war conditions have made necessary.

Mr. Williams' example is one that should be emulated throughout the country. Living conditions are now hard enough at the best, and it is no time to stand idly by and permit human sharks to fatten at the expense of a long-suffering public. A square deal is all that the government demands and all that the people demand. No one expects living to be cheap while present conditions continue, but there is a justifiable demand that exploitation shall cease and that food be furnished to the people at as reasonable rates as are possible under the circumstances.

This is all that is asked, and the government is doing its best to meet the situation. With proper co-operation on the part of dealers there will be a large measure of relief, and where this co-operation is not voluntary it must be made compulsory. That is what Mr. Williams is preparing to do in New York, and it is what ought to be done and must be done in all parts of the country if food regulation is to afford the protection and relief which the people have a right to expect.

Since September, 1916, food prices have advanced 29 percent, according to figures given out from Washington. Ordinary householders do not bother their heads much with percentages, but all are aware that the cost of living has increased rapidly and are consequently in a mood to demand that regulation shall be made to regulate.

A plan for pooling the traffic and equipment of the railroads of the country is under consideration at Washington because of the congested condition of the freight traffic. At such a time of modesty, a sense of fair play and patriotism should restrain the railroad employees from making trouble.

The next "drive" will be for the sale of war savings certificates, by which it is hoped to raise $2,000,000,000. The people of the country are in a fair way to become very familiar with "drives" of one kind and another, but all necessary to the one great end which the country has in view.

Again New England is promised relief with reference to the coal supply, an order having gone forth that shipments that have been going to the Northwest be switched this way. The announcement is welcome, even if the general conditions here are not as bad as they might be.

A lot of naval men left their ship in a Rhode Island port recently and helped to harvest a large field of corn that was in danger of being seriously damaged by weather conditions. There was an example of food conservation that is worth noting.

Do your Christmas mailing early, say the postal authorities, and in view of the congested condition of traffic generally the advice may well be heeded. And if the mailing is to be done early, the shopping will, of course, have to be.

November has been a pleasant month, and it winds up in a way to remind us of what Thanksgiving used to be when we were boys.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Typical Case
(From a Jacksonville, Fla., Letter to the Editor in New York Herald)
I know of a small town, about fifty miles from here, called Fernandina, where there is not a single man of the conscription age left in it, all of them having volunteered to form a branch of the Government service, and a good many that were not liable to call also volunteered.

A understanding also that in Fernandina there are about 250 fishermen, mostly of Italian and Portuguese birth, nearly all within the conscription age. All have claimed exemption as aliens and are permitted to stay there and get rich in the fishing business, while all of the American born citizens have quit their business and gone into the service of the Government.

Is there any reason why my two boys should have to fight to make a country free for such people as these who have not thought enough of the United States to become naturalized? The existing conscription laws at a premium on being an alien. My contention is that all of the foreigners should either be conscripted or forced to go back to their country that they do not want to stay in. I think they should be taken in the United States Army under the same age limits, physical examination and pay as if they were in their own country, and they certainly could not object to being treated the same as if they were in their own dear country.

One Cause For Thanksgiving
(From the Living Church)

The American people, indeed, have risked their all in this war—and it is a glorious thing to have done, for the needs and the ends amply justify it. If we are defeated it means not merely the loss of lives and treasure but perhaps of our independence and our democracy. Yes, we may even say that if, with us, the Allies are beaten and a peace dictated from Berlin shall result, it will set civilization back from three to five centuries. Free democracy would, even so, some time live again, but many generations would probably rise and fall before that would come to pass. Whatever progress we have made in solving the problem of democracy we have staked upon the outcome of the war—and wisely.

With such a stake we cannot afford to lapse into hysteria. Amidst all the rocking of the foundations of the world there is just one Power that is absolutely unshaken, absolutely certain to dominate, in the final analysis whatever be the vicissitudes that may come to pass. And that Power is—God. From the beginning of the war to the present time there have been frequent intimations that God had established a limit beyond which enemy success has been impossible. Why has the enemy never been able to get his long-range guns quite to the English Channel, though from the very beginning they have been almost there? Why should the enemy have failed at the Marne? Why have not the U-boats succeeded? Why does the Italian line hold now at the Piave? Let no one pretend to say that God has protected some nations and abandoned others. He has abandoned none, even in the midst of their defeat. Neither can we know what suffering, for any of the nations, lies still ahead of us. But God has not permitted an unrighteous Kultur of frightfulness to obtain actual victory. We have the right to be confident that he will not.

Let that be our chief theme in the nation's Thanksgiving. God will not, God cannot, leave us helpless in the hour of our need, whatever be the sufferings which we must undergo. The eternal God is our Refuge, and underneath are the Everlasting Arms.

And in quietness and in confidence shall be our strength.

Purchase of Locomotive Plant
(From the Manchester Mirror)
The big deal in real estate, involving the transfer of the extensive holdings of the American Locomotive Company in Manchester to the Hon. Frank P. Carpenter, the latter, acting for the Ameskeag Manufacturing Company in the transaction, is full of great potentialities for Manchester.

It cannot for a moment be doubted but that the great Ameskeag company will develop this property; and in place of idleness, where once large numbers of locomotives and steam fire engines were turned out, we shall see industry restored, hundreds of skilled workmen given employment and our city vastly benefited thereby.

At present the Manchester officials of the Ameskeag company are not prepared to give information as to the uses to be made of the newly acquired property and Treasurer Dumaine, who directed the acquisition of the estate, is temporarily absent from New England but no one can doubt that the new owner will improve and develop the plant. The Ameskeag company at present owns the adjoining property on both the south and north sides of the tract purchased and it was but logical that it should add the intervening 310,160 square feet, together with the buildings located thereon, to its possession.

Self-Appraised Germany
(From the Baltimore American)
Premier Clemenceau declares that if Germany wished to end the war tomorrow, he would not agree as the nature of Germany is not to be trusted. That reputation of warlike honor is what Germany has earned by her famous scrap of paper declaration. Her word is taken at her own cynical valuation.

Join the Red Cross
Former Governor Holland H. Spaulding, fresh from the very successful Red Triangle drive which he directed in his home county of Strafford—and in which by the way, the county over-subscribed its quota by more than $7,000—is now engaged with characteristic vigor in laying the plans for the week before Christmas drive to enroll 70,000 new members in the New Hampshire chapter of the Red Cross. If any remark that Mr. Spaulding has a considerable task on his hands, let the answer be that the task, broadly speaking, belongs to him no more than to every other member of the Red Cross in New Hampshire, and to every eligible resident of the state who is not a member of the Red Cross, for it is as much the duty of each member to secure additional members, and of non-members to demonstrate their patriotic interest by becoming members, as it is of Governor Spaulding to give of his time, energy and executive ability in mapping out the work and leading the drive.

New Hampshire interest in, and sympathy with the work of the Red Cross has been proved in more ways than one, since the beginning of the war. The society now asks that that interest and that sympathy be made a matter of subjective concentration, by entering actually and permanently into and becoming a part of the organization itself. Let the general interest become a personal interest on the part of every individual. The surest way to accomplish this is to associate oneself in fact, as well as in disposition, with the Red Cross movement. Under the capable leadership of former Governor Spaulding the desired 70,000 new members should certainly be enrolled in the prospective week's drive. There is no need to explain the aims and objects of the Red Cross—everybody is familiar with them, and everybody is, or ought to be, in thorough sympathy with them. This being true, the moral is plain; and so is the duty of joining the Red Cross.

Should Be a Big Club.

(From the Somersworth Free Press)
A new patriotic organization is suggested. The National Committee of Patriotic Societies, headed by Lieutenant General S. B. M. Young, has sent a message to "the loyal citizens of every city and village in the United States," asking them to organize a local chapter of the War Annapolis Club, and to nominate for membership "every man and woman in your community who is eliminating malicious rumors and repeating false reports that tend to cause suspicion and distrust upon our Government and thus hamper the successful prosecution of the war." The suggestion is made that a membership that be posted on some conspicuous corner, and that the stories and names of their narrators be sent to the local newspapers and to the headquarters of the National Committee at Washington. A conspicuous position in the War Annapolis Club should be given those designing or weak-minded persons who repeat lies about the work of the American Red Cross Society.

SECRET TREATY GIVEN OUT BY BOLSHEVIKI

Said in Dispatches to Involve Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy.

(By Associated Press)

London, Nov. 30.—Petrograd dispatches dated Wednesday, to the Daily Mail, state that the Bolsheviks have given out a secret treaty involving Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy.

The dispatch includes the terms by which Italy entered the war. Great Britain, France and Russia, according to the text of the treaty, agreed with Italy annexation south of Tyrol and other territory.

The dispatch, in conclusion says: "France, Russia and Great Britain have taken upon themselves to supply Russia in her distress and to allow the Holy See to take desperate steps for the conclusion of peace or other matters pertaining to the present war."

They Mourn His Loss

Much sorrow is expressed among the enlisted men and civil employees at the Portsmouth yard on the sudden death of Chief Master-at-Arms John Flynn who had charge of the yard bowling alleys as special duty. Deceased had a most excellent record of nearly 25 years in the service and was a favorite among the old time men of his rank. Although unable to be with the men now doing their bit on the other side of the Atlantic, he took great interest in every patriotic movement of the government pertaining to the present war. He will be missed greatly by his comrades on the yard and his acquaintances in this city where he has made his home for the past three years.

PLAN INLAND WATERWAY ACROSS ENTIRE EUROPE

The Hague, Netherlands, Nov. 30.—German plans contemplate the construction or organization of a navigable inland waterways for large boats across Europe from the Black Sea to the Rhine and the French river system, and to the Elbe and the northern German waterway system on the other. This would enormously enlarge the facilities for commercial intercourse between Germany and Austria-Hungary and between Germany and the Balkan countries and Turkey. The war, as giving rise to the desire for closer link between the countries of the present Central European alliance, seems to have given an impetus to those new schemes and canal projects which are just now well to the fore in Germany, according to advices received here.

The net of inland waterways on the continent of Europe apart from the peninsulas, consists of two entirely separate systems. The separating line runs across Europe, from the North Sea between Hamburg and Bremen, parallel with the Elbe to the Rhine, and even to Odessa, the Russian part on the Black Sea, by a connected series of waterways, but it is impossible to journey from Hamburg to Moscow in the manner from Bremen a motorboat can take you to the Mediterranean or to the foot of the Pyrenees but there is no navigable waterway from Prague to Vienna.

In recent years wide interest has been taken in plans for joining the Danube northwards with the Elbe and the Vistula, and westward with the Rhine and so with the entire west European waterway net. During the war political considerations have emphasized the importance of such plans from the central powers' point of view. The strength of the Quadruple Alliance, as conceived for the future by the statesmen of the countries concerned, lies in the economic solidarity that might be reached if the waters of the four states could be easily and cheaply exchanged. Germany, it is pointed out, might attach to a more vigorous industrial development, and the entire complex of countries from the North Sea to the Persian Gulf, would form an economic blockade.

One essential factor for the realization of such a plan is a cheap means of communication, a waterway joining the various countries of the Quadruple Alliance. There are various plans afoot for securing a Rhine-Danube waterway navigable by good sized boats. Perhaps the most favored is that of a canal running from Wertheim, on the Main, past Nuremberg to Stepperg on the Danube. It provides for barges of 600 tons to 1000 tons. The canal would be prolonged south of the Danube to Augsburg and Munich and would, it is anticipated, bring great prosperity to southern Bavaria, whose unfavorable geographical situation, has so far prevented its adequate development. The two chambers of the Bavarian Landtag have passed a bill for the construction of a large canal joining the Rhine, Main and Danube on certain conditions.

Relatively the waterways of Europe today carry a greater quantity of goods than its railroads, and the proportion still tends to move in favor of the cheaper water borne traffic.

TURKEY FOR ENLISTED MEN

The enlisted men of the Forts and at the Navy Yard, who were unable to go home for the Thanksgiving dinner, were not forgotten by the government and at both places real old fashioned Thanksgiving turkey dinners with all of the fixings was served.

At Forts Constitution and Stark Col. Patterson allowed a generous number of the men to go home if they lived within a reasonable distance of the city and for those who did not leave special holiday features were provided.

There was turkey enough for all and the company's chefs had laid them selves out to see that it was served with all of the fixings and the menu provided would do justice to the best in the land.

At the navy yard, the men attached to all of the ships, had their turkey dinner and some form of entertainment during the afternoon and the same held true at the marine barracks.

At the Naval Prison and at the detention ships the prisoners were made to forget for the day that they were prisoners and given special liberties and at noon a fine dinner.

OBITUARY

John F. Flynn.

Chief Master at Arms John F. Flynn, U. S. N., died suddenly on Wednesday night at his home on Cabot street after a few minutes illness with acute indigestion. Mr. Flynn was apparently in the best of health when he complained of feeling ill and he started to lay down on a couch when he expired.

He was a native of New York and he has been here about six years, having been attached to the U. S. S. Southery. He has been in the navy twenty-three years and he was popular there and this city. He was 47 years of age and he leaves a wife. The funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday from the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Mrs. Lizzie Perkins

Mrs. Lizzie Perkins, widow of William T. Perkins, died on Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lamont Hillon, on South street. She was born April 25, 1852.

Edwin A. Rand

Died November 29th at the Portsmouth hospital, Edwin A. Rand. He was born in this city, October 1st, 1873, the son of Alonzo R. and Mary Peabody Rand, and is survived by a widow.

GREENLAND

Greenland, Nov. 30—Herbert J. L. J. of Guilford, who bought the George M. Hennessey estate a few months ago, arrived last week with Mrs. L. J. and young son to take permanent possession of the farm. He brought several horses, cows, pigs, with which to stock the barn. Also a

APPOINTED AS FINGER EXPERT AT WASHINGTON

James F. Marks of This City Takes Up Important Government Work.

One of the important appointments recently made in government circles at Washington, D. C., is that of James F. Marks of this city, who now holds the position of government finger print expert in the office of the adjutant general. He was formerly connected with the courts of New York, but now makes his home in Portsmouth at 232 Wilbur street. His wife was formerly Miss Annie Bates, sister of Paul and John Bailey, well known local ball players.

The government is taking finger prints of every man who enters the service of the army and navy and the selection of Mr. Marks as expert is highly complimentary to the young man and shows his steady advance in this line of important work carried on by Uncle Sam. He is now on a leave of absence which he is passing with his family.

FISH AND GAME DEPT. SHOW BIG INCREASE

Turn Over $61,000 to State for Year Ending in Sept.

The fiscal year in the State Fish and Game department ends in September and in the year just passed this department has been able to turn over to the state the sum of $61,320.02, which is an increase over the year before of $20,143.71.

In the past year there were 67 suspensions of fines recommended by Commissioner McIntire. The balance of cases, a total of 224 paid a total of $6,121.22.

This year a total of nine wardens have been at work and the expense of running the department has been $16,938.81, for warden service, against $14,104.82 for the year previous.

Approximate figures showing money handled by the Fish and Game department during the two years of 1916 and 1917 from September to September:

Fines and forfeitures taken in 1916, $2,992.86; 1917, $6,121.22.
Non-resident hunting licenses taken in 1916, $10,529.40; 1917, $14,170.10.
Resident hunting licenses taken in 1916, $27,657.05; 1917, $34,924.05.
Non-resident fishing licenses taken in 1917, $6,107.65.
Total taken in 1916, $11,179.31; 1917, $61,320.02.

SUSPECTED DISTRESS SIGNALS RAIDER'S TRAP

An Atlantic Port, Nov. 30—Disregard for distress signals may have saved a valuable liner from destruction by a raider in the vicinity of Cape of Good Hope, it was learned yesterday. The ship, with 43 passengers had been warned by wireless that the presence of a raider in that locality was suspected. Therefore, when a call for assistance was picked up the captain kept on his course instead of shifting helm and rushing to the position indicated. This seemingly heart-headed act was justifiable, it was said, because shipmasters have been instructed not to answer distress signals as commanders of vessels resort to that ruse to lure the vessels within range of torpedoes.

WHITNEY'S DOLLS A GREAT KID NOVELTY

Don't fail to let the kiddies see the splendid show at the Colonial today or Saturday. The management is making a special effort for the little folks and to that end the price is fixed so all may be able to attend, the children being admitted for the old time six plus war tax, six in all. Besides Whitney's Dolls and other acts, there will be many pleasing things in pictures, a big afternoon for the little ones.

THE HERALD HEARS

That a betting argument which took place at the corner of Daniel and Penhallow streets on Thursday was enjoyed by the outsiders who volunteered as stake holders, but never got the opportunity to grasp the long green.

That the grocery clerk lost his breath when the business man flashed Liberty Loans amounting to $1000 and a role of kate that would choke a cow.

That the clerk will never admit he took the count and still says he would be a winner if the coin was passed.

That Dover people say the quiet city election held there on Tuesday was due to so many young men being in the military service.

That others say that the big crew of voters who work on the navy yard did not mark a ballot.

That the Democrats are now weeping over the fact that a live young Democrat might have got away with the political prize under the conditions which existed there on Tuesday.

That one New Hampshire woman says she is doing her bit for the conservation of food.

That she needs no tips from Hoover in this important matter.

That when asked what she was doing in this line, she replied: "We eat what we can and give the remnants to the pigs, and then we eat the pigs."

That the B. & M. is said to be planning to place new brass work on the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge during a week day.

That this has never been done outside of a Sunday owing to the traffic.

That peanuts are said to be getting scarce.

That it is hoped that stock will not be shy on the next census day.

That several cases of scarlet fever are reported on Richards avenue.

That human nature is queer.

That a woman who has been conspicuous in war work has just been fined $8,000 for failing to come across with money to cover the duty on some personal things she purchased abroad.

That the British expected to get Jerusalem for Thanksgiving. Perhaps they can get Turkey for Christmas.

That the police report a very quiet holiday.

That the Biks will have to add a few more stars to the service flag.

THEATRES TO HOLD RED CROSS NIGHT

Friday, December 7th, has been designated by the theatre managers of the entire country as Red Cross night and arrangements are being made by which all of the theatres will give a performance on that date for the benefit of the American Red Cross, the gross proceeds to be equally divided between the National Red Cross and the local chapters in which the theatres are located.

At the request of the National Chapter, orders have been issued through all of the division headquarters for all local chapters and branches to assist in every way the theatre managers in this great benefit which will mean so many thousand dollars to the Red Cross.

This is one way that the theatre going public can assist the Red Cross work and still get full value for their money and it is expected that there will be such a demand for seats at this performance that all seats will be sold in advance and standing room will be at a premium.

Manager Greely of the Colonial theatre has received the plans for the observance of the day from the Red Cross headquarters. The regular performances of December 7 are not to be interrupted in the slightest. The plans state that the theatres are to cooperate by giving a special performance, and that to take place in the morning.

MOTHER CLAIMS BOY AT STATION

Charles Hayes, the young lad who the police have been holding since Sunday night, was turned over to his parents in Portland on Thursday afternoon.

Charles was found at a farm house on Lafayette road on Sunday evening looking for work and he gave his name at that time as James Hayes and told a story of coming from El Paso, Tex., with his brother, who was a member of the United States Cavalry at Fort Ethan Allen in Vermont. That he was allowed to remain with his brother having a tent for himself at the fort until last July when he ran away and he had been wandering ever since.

He was a bright and neat little fellow and Marshal Hurley did not take kindly to his story, although he stuck to it all of the time. Marshal Hurley tried to locate the parents of the lad, but it was not until Thursday that it was discovered he belonged in Portland and was the son of George Hayes.

His mother came here Thursday afternoon and took the lad home with her. He appeared very glad to see his mother and readily accompanied her home.

He comes from a very good home and he admitted to the police that he had no reason in the world for running away. It appears that the lad was struck on the head when a youngster and this injury has caused him at times to do odd stunts.

WILLING TO TALK PEACE WITH RUSSIA

(By Associated Press)

Berlin, via London, Nov. 29.—Count George H. Von Hertling, the Imperial Chancellor, told the Reichstag today that he was prepared to enter into peace negotiations with Russia, as quick as properly accredited representatives of that Government were appointed and arrive in Berlin. He said that he hoped that the efforts for peace would be successful.

NO MORE COMMISSIONS FOR SLACKERS

Washington, Nov. 29.—The so called slackers commission by which men seek to escape service by securing officers commissions in the non-combatant department of the Government is to be radically revised by Secretary Baker. He has announced hereafter no man of a draft age will be commissioned until it is shown clearly that they are better equipped for the position than any of the men of over draft age. Also that no function of the army than can be carried out efficiently by civilians, will be taken over by army officers.

FAKE STILL ALARM

The auto chemical crew were called out twice Thursday evening, the first at the corner of Dennett and Thornton streets for a suspected chimney fire and the second time to Pickering street on a phony alarm.

The call on Dennett street was because some sparks were seen coming from a chimney, but there was no occasion for an alarm.

The second was a fake pure and simple and Chief Engineer Woods is trying to locate the source of the call. It came in over the telephone shortly before 9.30 and the auto truck hustled down only to find no fire. The call is suspected to have come from a mentally unbalanced woman.

The new order regarding the display of electric signs and illuminating show windows, is being carried out in this city, all of the merchants readily complying with the request of the Fuel Board.

GET THIEVES STEALING ARMY STORES

(By Associated Press)

Boston, Nov. 29.—Following reported thefts of food stuff and supplies intended for shipment to France, the police today raided a house in East Boston and found 5000 army stores. This is the second raid in two weeks that the police have made in an effort to break up the gang of thieves who are looting warehouses and freight sheds.

SHELL STRUCK U. S. MUNITION WAGON

(By Associated Press)

With the American Army in France, Nov. 29.—The killing of two and wounding of six soldiers of the American army reported, was due to a chance German shell landing in a loaded American munition wagon, which blew up. The killed were on the wagon and the others near it and they are in the hospital in a serious condition.

SHERIFF OF HILLSBORO COUNTY DEAD

INTER ALLIED CONFERENCE IN PARIS

(By Associated Press)

The all important inter-allied conference has begun its sessions at Paris today. There are fifteen nations engaged in the conference which is expected to have a quickening effect upon the cooperation between nations in carrying on the war and pooling the great resources of the allied nations.

An important meeting of the Supreme War Council consisting of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, will shortly be held at which time the direct management of the war will be considered and from its might come a supreme head for the direction of the allied forces or a war council.

The British are paying hard at Cambrai and now the city is directly under the fire of the British artillery. The struggle about Hourlon-woods and the woods to the west of Cambrai, where the Germans made a desperate attempt to regain the ground taken by the British and especially the dominating heights in the woods, has evidently been another success for the British, who have repulsed all of the great German massed attacks, and have control of the important points which are within a few miles of Cambrai. The German efforts have been very costly and their casualties in dead, wounded and prisoners is very heavy.

After a violent preparation of artillery fire the Germans undertook to raid the Champagne district but they were repulsed by the French with terrible losses. Two other attempts to advance were also thrown back, while raids of the French were successful in the Argonne region where prisoners were captured.

Along the Italian front the batteries on both sides have been especially active but no important infantry movement has been reported. The arrival of the British and French forces in considerable numbers has greatly strengthened the Italian line and the battering process of the Germans will only net them heavier casualties.

News from Petrograd is very meagre and no exact information of what is going on in Petrograd or at Moscow is obtainable.

Count Von Hertling, the Imperial Grand Chancellor, told the German Reichstag yesterday that Germany is ready to open peace negotiations with Russia as soon as fully accredited representatives arrive in Berlin. He also stated that they would recognize the rights of Poland and Lithuania to self government.

All but two of the crew of a German destroyer were lost when the war ship struck a mine off the coast of Holland and sank.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD PROTECT ITSELF

No government can compel a citizen to give its loyal support in time of war but every government can take stern measures to protect itself from the consequences of disloyalty.

The indictment of Jeremiah O'Leary and two other persons associated with him in the publication of a seditious magazine called Bull, followed the indictment of various members of the editorial staff of The Masses, furnishes gratifying evidence that the authorities at Washington are determined at last to use the power conferred upon them by congress. It is time this power was used and used drastically.

Since April 6 the United States has been engaged in two wars, one with the Imperial Government and one with the disloyal and treasonable elements of its own population. These elements have been giving aid and comfort to Germany every day since congress declared the existence of a state of war. Without having the courage to commit an overt act of treason, they have publicly preached treason and incited others to treason. Defaming and libelling their own government, impeaching the honesty and integrity of its motives, they have nevertheless claimed the fullest guarantees of freedom for themselves under it and demanded the fullest protection of all their real and pretended rights.

While regiment after regiment of American soldiers has gone to the front, to die if need be for the ideals of the Republic, these miserable scoundrels at home have been intriguing in behalf of Germany and doing what they could to defeat the military undertakings of their country.

It is of little consequence whether they have been influenced by the dirty money of the German propaganda or whether their disloyalty is the product of moral perversion. The important thing is that the United States should deal with them as they deserve to be dealt with.

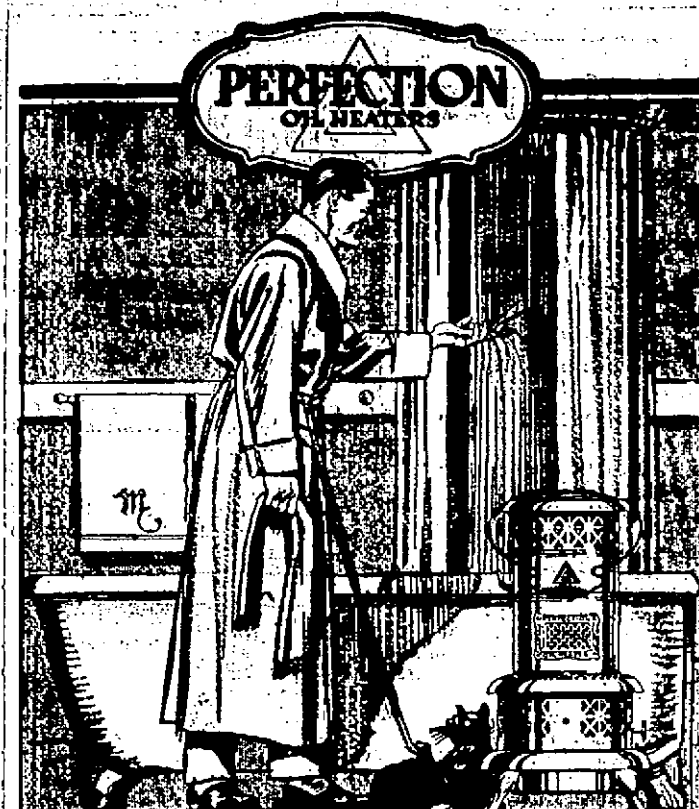

Nobody can say that the authorities at Washington have been arbitrary or despot in enforcing the espionage act. They have been lenient almost to the point of weakness in their reluctance to use the law lest they be accused of attempting to stifle honest criticism. When they have acted, they have acted hesitatingly and almost apologetically.

There was a great deal to be said for such a policy at the beginning of the war, but it has failed. The elements of sedition have come to believe that the government dare not take strong measures against them and that the country can be fooled indefinitely by their impudent pretenses of defending free speech and a free press. Appeals and warnings alike have been flouted, and there is nothing left for Washington to do but to enforce the law vigorously and mercilessly, whether the offense leads to the prison cell or to the gallows.

The nation at war must vindicate its sovereignty at home as well as abroad.—New York World.

PASSING BAD CHECKS AT ARMY CAMPS

(By Associated Press)
Burlington, Vt., Nov. 29.—A man and woman giving the name of Mr. and Mrs. R. Duncan were arrested here today by Federal authorities, who have been searching for the two for passing worthless checks. They have been working about war camps, appearing in quest of a storage place about the camps. They have passed several worthless checks. In the south, and were suspected of working north.

FIRE SWEEPS BRIGHTON BEACH

(By Associated Press)
New York, Nov. 29.—Parkway baths at Brighton Beach were destroyed by fire today and more than a score of buildings around it were either burned or badly damaged, with a loss estimated at $300,000. The buildings were all frame construction and burned rapidly.

The buildings damaged cover an area of four acres and include 20 bungalows, two restaurants, one hotel and the baths.

The property was owned by the Brighton-by-the-Sea Company and all buildings were unoccupied, the fire starting under the board walk.

GERMAN ADVANCE IN ITALY OVER

London, Nov. 29.—"It is now time to say definitely that the crisis in Italy has passed," said Major Gen. F. B. Maurice, Chief Director of Military Operations at the War Office in discussing the situation on various fronts with the Associated Press.

This, he said, was due entirely to the efforts of the Italian Army, adding: "Anglo-French troops are now available in sufficient quantities to satisfy us that the situation is secure."

The General pointed out that German inability to exploit the Italian disaster could be regarded as significant.

of Austro-German weakness. "The results which the Germans attained in their first attack," he said, "were due solely to the successful propaganda among the ignorant soldiers of the uneducated peasant class. This success far exceeded any German expectation. But, having gained this success, it would be expected that the Germans would do all possible to exploit it. They have been able to do nothing beyond following up the Italian retirement."

"Even now there is no sign anywhere of the vast German reinforcements, which it might naturally be expected Germany would rush up to strike a decisive blow at the enemy. Why? My only answer is they are not there because Germany is unable to send them. She is unable to exploit the opportunity offered."

He added that there had been no important movement of German troops from the Russian front.

The Official Reports.

The bulletin issued today by the Italian War Office as telegraphed here says:

"On the Asago Plateau, in the Primolano Basin, at the north of Col della Beretta, and on the Middle Pave our batteries in co-operation with our own forces, have carried out concentrations of fire on enemy troops massed and in movement."

"Four enemy airplanes were brought down yesterday by our fire."

The German official statement merely says there is nothing to report from the Italian front.

GERMAN SPIES EVERYWHERE

(By Associated Press)
Christiana, Nov. 28.—During the last half of this year has had the same experience of German methods as the United States went through before it entered the war, spies working everywhere under the direction of espionage centers in the neighboring countries, Sweden and Denmark.

Thanks to the work of the police, especially in Christiana, many of them have been caught, some sent to jail and others expelled from the country.

Several mysterious fires in great industrial plants and storage houses have aroused a country-wide suspicion against every German, Swedish and Finn. During the last half of the year there have been 21 such fires here, two or three occurring together. Trondheim belonging to the British importing agency was burned with a loss of several million dollars. It proved to be of incendiary origin. Two canning plants with great exports for Great Britain were burned and a condensed milk plant with exclusive export trade to England was destroyed with more than a million cans ready for shipment.

Three planing mills in different parts of the country were burned. Their output was being used for boxes and crates for export. The other day another planing mill in the vicinity of the government's fire arm manufactory at Kongsberg was also burned during the night and while attention was directed toward this fire a burglar was detected in the fire-arm factory. The press states that German plotters in this case endeavored to blow up the government factory.

Foreigners have sought and in a number of cases obtained employment at the government munition plant and later have discovered to be German citizens, some of them even officers in the German army.

The press is warning the people to look for a criminal spy in every German in the country.

In order to keep such undesirable guests out of the country and prevent the increasing number of foreigners of a poor quality from drifting into Norway, a short bill was passed by parliament forbidding foreigners

DON'T THINK WAR WILL END SOON

Washington, Nov. 29.—High Administration officials and military and naval experts agree with the views of British strategists expressed today, that the war cannot be ended in victory at an early date. It is betraying no secret to say the American war machine is being erected on a three-year basis and with provision for extending that time if need be.

No responsible official in Washington expects the war to end this year. The Russian and Italian situations have greatly complicated matters. Even without those two vital developments American military experts did not seriously consider the possibility that victory would be won before the fall of 1918.

Secretary of War Baker has said repeatedly that the war will end "when we win it."

This is a fair summary of the views of all high officials and military and naval experts.

"The statements are both timely and illuminating," said a military expert of high rank. "Our friends on the other side need have no fear that the United States will be misled. We have already had too many illustrations of German deceit and camouflage to be fooled again."

"From the outset we have nursed no illusions as to the duration of the war. For a time there appeared to be hope that the alliance between the four Central Powers might be broken. This has long since passed. We can win the war only by defeating Germany."

"I do not believe economic conditions in Germany are as bad as Lord Sydenham pictures them. We cannot console ourselves even on that point and do so with any degree of safety. The Allied blockade of Germany has not had the desired effect of starving her, and I do not expect to see Germany starved into submission. We must beat the Kaiser into submission, using the implements which he fashioned and with which he planned world domination."

DRAFT INDICTMENT FOR CONGRESSMAN.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 29.—Representative John M. Nelson as his son Byron were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury today on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Draft Registration Laws. The son previously had been indicted, charged with failure to register. The two will be tried in December. Congressman Nelson was charged with advising his son not to register. Young Nelson now is on his father's ranch in Canada. Congressman Nelson is in Washington.

WANT MORE OCEAN GOING TUGS

(By Associated Press)
Pittsburg, Penn., Nov. 29.—To enable the moving of more coal to the New England states where there is a shortage the General operating committee of the war board have suggested to Fuel Administrator Garfield that more sea going tugs of a shallow draft be put on between Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York to New England ports.

POLES IN SUICIDE AGREEMENT

(By Associated Press)
Boston, Nov. 29.—When Felix Shuk returned home from work today he found two of his boarders dead and his wife in a serious condition from gas poisoning. John Cowesky and Ignaz Nedbala, were lying on their bed with the gas pouring from two open jets while his wife was unconscious in an adjoining room from the gas fumes. The authorities after an investigation think that it was a suicide pact.

NEW AUTO RECORD ESTABLISHED

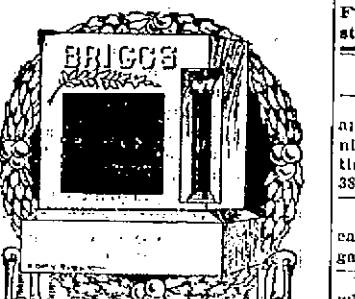

(By Associated Press)
Los Angeles, Nov. 29.—Edward Hearne won the fifty mile sweepstakes at Ascot park today and created a new world record for the distance on a mile speedway. His time was 41 m. 64. 1-10 s. or at an average of 71.55 miles an hour. Barney Oldfield held a fifth of a second from his one mile record doing it in 45 seconds.

SALVATION ARMY
GIVES 75 BASKETS

The local Salvation Army corps made 75 families happy on Thanksgiving day by distributing that many baskets, well filled, among the needy of this city.

Captain W. J. Lawrence stated to day that the corps was able this year to do even better than in previous years when the children, numbering nearly 200, were invited to the barracks for a set down to dinner. By the distribution of the baskets it was the idea to reach the mothers and needy families as well as the children.

WARD 5 OFFICERS WILL DEFY THE CITY COUNCIL

Claim They Have the Only Authority Directing Election Matters and the Posted Warrant Settles It.

A week from tomorrow the city election takes place and up to date it has been the most quiet campaign in many years. The only stir among the politicians has been on the ward five controversy. The selection of the ward say they have the thing settled from the fact that the law states they shall post the warrant for election fourteen days previous to the same and that they alone have the power to select the necessary place for the voters. On the other hand the city council has stopped payment for the rooms on Water street since last June and given notice that the voters of this ward shall come to city hall on December 11 if they want to vote. The selection declare any election held outside of the place where the warrant is posted, would be illegal. The city council and city solicitor believe that the previous action of the council covers everything necessary in the case, that the selection of the ward and the owners of the Water street building have been properly notified of the change in voting quarters and that they posted the warrant regardless of the city government's ruling, knowing that the city had given up further payment of rent, etc. The ward selection have received considerable correspondence from city hall touching on this matter, and according to report, have ignored it completely, claiming they are acting within their right in everything pertaining to the election of this ward. From the outside it looks like one more election day in the Water street quarters unless the city council convenes at a special session and go further with this proposition in the way of putting it up to the superior court for a ruling.

CAUGHT PEDDLING THE
BOOZE IN KITTERY

Oscar Burke in Court on Two Complaints; Severe Sentence for Bootlegging Across the River.

Oscar, better known as "Itazor" Burke, of this city, went to Kittery Wednesday evening with his clothes well stuffed with liquor. That is, he had nine or ten and perhaps more bottles of a pint each, of real red rum. Burke went to sleep in the waiting room of the electric road on Ceres street, on his way over, and snored for some time until the boat was ready for the other side.

The police here and the officers on the Kittery side have been quite sure that Burke was carrying over booze. They have been watching him for more than two months, in fact Deputy Sheriff Boardman searched him on one occasion on the way over, but secured nothing.

Wednesday evening the deputy sheriff found Burke hanging around the center of the town. He was closely watched, and was seen to have a supply of some kind on hand. Later the officer caught Burke handling over quite a quantity of the stuff to a Kittery restaurant keeper, and in the presence of several witnesses who were expecting the transaction. Burke was immediately locked up.

He was arraigned in the municipal court this morning before Judge Justin H. Shaw on two complaints, one for tottering with liquor on his person, and one for making a sale to the eating house proprietor. To both complaints a plea of guilty was entered.

Judge Shaw imposed a fine of $100 and thirty days in jail on the first, and $50 and 30 days in jail on the second; and in default of the payment of the fine and costs in each case, to serve 60 days additional. So that Burke will stay at the county institution at Alfred until about the first of June next.

It was taken to the Alfred jail this morning, by Deputy Boardman. The job of landing this bootlegger was a good one, and the sentence is a severe one.

POLICE COURT

Alvin N. Wright was not the right Mr. Wright because he got in wrong at Pierce Hall on Thursday night. Alvin appeared among the throng of merry dancers with a fair load of pouches. The management told Mr. Wright outright that he was not right and they rightfully objected to his presence. The right hand of the manager pointed to the nearest exit and he told the wrong Mr. Wright to go right out. Mr. Wright insisted on his rights and was right ready for a mixup. Somebody called Patrolman Condon and he was right on the job. He rushed Mr. Wright right along to the Chapel street barracks where the pep left him and he went to sleep. He appeared right front into line this morning before His Honor and admitted things were not right with him, that he did not do right at the right time and had no right to bring that fair right into a public place. The court said all would be right if Wright would come right up with $11.18. He produced the mazzini and went right out.
